

Social Engagement & Community Relations Manager

About Brixton Metals Corporation

Brixton Metals is a Canadian exploration company (TSX-V: BBB) focused on the advancement of its flagship Thorn copper-gold-silver-molybdenum Project located in Northwest British Columbia. For more information, please visit: www.brixtonmetals.com

Job Description:

The Social Engagement & Community Relations Manager will engage with all levels of communities and stakeholders, including the local communities where we operate, various Indigenous communities and First Nation governments, project partners, and internal team members. Success in this role requires a trustworthy representative who can develop near-term and long-term partnerships and honour our ESG initiatives. This position is suited to an individual who values collaboration and building strong relationships to support business opportunities and community development.

While this position includes some office work (location to be discussed), travel is required, mainly to communities throughout NW BC, for in-person engagements related to meetings with our First Nation partners and community leaders, local job fairs, special events, public presentations, and project tours with Indigenous members. Other job features will be discussed with candidates, in consideration of the following:

- Preference for a candidate who is living in and positively contributing to their NW BC community. Consideration will be given to highly qualified candidates who reside in other regions of BC;
- Depending on a candidate's unique skill set, this position may be tailored to include working alongside our exploration team, supporting corporate marketing, or development of new opportunities;
- Depending on the candidate, this is a part-time position with potential for a fulltime role.

Skills & qualifications:

- Affinity for collaborating and building mutual appreciation for one another;
- Proactive, respectful, and responsive toward stakeholders and community members;
- Positive attitude with a sightline to tackle multifaceted matters;
- Succinct and clear communication skills, both verbally and in technical business writing;

- Commitment to health, safety & environment and development of our ESG practices;
- Confident public speaker and presenter;
- Possess a valid driver's license;
- A background in Geological Sciences, Geosciences and/or Engineering is an asset (not required).
